A World Apart

The story of Russian history has been a tumultuous one. The sparkle of opulence that exists in the palaces of Moscow and St. Petersburg today does not erase the past. The winds of change have swept the land. Surviving the policies of the Soviet Union, Russia has found its way into the heart of the 21st century. As a result, the gilded palaces of the tsars and czars have been restored and opened to the public.

Moscow and St. Petersburg have been intertwined for many centuries. They were both founded by Ivan the Terrible in the 16th century, as they were twin cities in the heart of modern Russia. Moscow was the capital of the country for most of its history, and St. Petersburg was added as a buffer to the north. Both cities have a mesmerizing history that is apparent in their distinctive architecture.

The high-rising spires and ornate, gold-gilded facades of the palaces are exercising a visual effect on the same scale as the pyramids of Egypt. The Amber Room of Catherine Palace in St. Petersburg is said to contain more than 2,000 carats of diamonds. The intricate designs on the walls are said to have been created by a team of artists who worked for 10 years.

It should weave together discovery, education and humanity, the best of what these cities have to offer. This journey will inspire an exciting chapter in your own story as you explore the history, culture, and art of these two cities.
